Mr. Taft is not prepared to call congress in extra session to pass upon the need of intervention, but he told his callers that he had no present intention of doing so. He does not believe conditions in Mexico are as bad as they were several weeks ago. He is standing firm upon his declaration to the Mexican ambassador and believes that conditions have improved since he told him what might be expected from the United States if American lives and property were not protected.

He made it clear to friends that intervention is just as far away today as it was then—not a probability, but it is not an impossibility.

MORMONS SHIPPING THEIR CATTLE HERE

Cold Weather Is Driving Refugees Out-of Camps to Other Points, to Find Permanent Homes.

cattle from the Mormon colonies are being brought to this side free of duty by the Mormon ranchers, who are abandoning their homes in the Mexican colonies. A shipment of a trainload of cattle was made from Colonia Juarez, Dubian and Diaz Monday. The milk cows will be kept here for the use of the refugees in the camps and the beef cattle will be sold.

A message was received from the Mormon boys who left last week for the mountain colonies that they had rounded up 760 head of Mormon cattle and would drive them down the mountains and ship to El Paso.

Many of the Mormons are leaving for other places in the southwest and Utah. The cold weather of Sunday has increased the inconvenience of the refugee camps and it is expected that many will leave this week. Roy L. Fratt. president of the Mexican mission, and bishop A. D. Thurber, of Colonia Dublan, have gone to Salt Lake to attend the October conference.

It is Different in El Paso and Los An-geles-Nothing There to Indicate American Aid For Rebels.

Los Angeles and El Paso differ as to the financing of the Maderista revolution. The senatorial investigation committee which was here to interview prominent Mexican refugees has been at work in Los Angeles and is about ready to quit because of the lack of positive testimony to show who furnished the funds for the first Mexican revolution.

It was a great little Sunday to stay home. Just enough rain in the morning to furnish a good excuse for not attending church, enough sun in the afternoon to cheer things up, then more rain with the arrival of the gloaming. Fall fell with a quiet patter on the roofs of Ei Paso Sunday and made the grate, with its missing firebrick, a welcome accessory before the fact. The clouds hung low over the mountains, the vines dropped their tinted leaves and the chrysanthemums nodded in the wind.

Few folks ventured out to worship Sunday morning and only the warmth morning and only the warmt of the afternoon sun brought anyone downtown. The new flag on the newly painted plaza flagpole whipped limply in the chill breeze and the park was dein the chill breeze and the park was descrited for one Sunday afternoon.

When night fell like a pall, smoke curled from the chimney tops of all who had a bit of coal left from last year. Those who were less fortunate, chopped their way into the piano boxes and packing cases to furnish ways and means of keeping the grate fire going. If the weather continues as chilling, the back fences will go next into the hungry maw of those same fireplaces.

Forecasted by the weather man, the snippy weather descended over night Saturday and awakened a shivering El Paso to the realization that coal is $2 per ton and the ice bill still growing.

Glooms—bewhiskered, black robed bewhiskered glooms—routed the merry merry joys from the weather office Sunday and remain in control of the citaciel on the roof of the Southwestern skyscraper. Only for a short time Sunday afternoon did the joys get control of the weather levers while the gloomlets were snoozing. Then they turned on the sun spotlight for a matinee of sunshine, followed by more of the moist stuff.

It was a great little Sunday to stay home. Just enough rain in the morning to furnish a good excuse for not the street of the roof the same purpose as the fleas on a dog's back. ASKS TO BE PROTECTED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—Bands of rebels continue their operations in the Mexican states along the border, endangering property of Americans and

The latest complainant is the manager of the Hearst ranch in northwestern Chihuahua, who has asked protection from the American consul.

The consul in reporting to the state department said the military authorities at Chihuahua had promised to send a force to guard the Hearst property. R. H. McDonzld and D. J. Mahoney, the two members of "Gen." O'Reilly's "army," which invaded the state of Sonora, two weeks go and which ended so disastrously for all three, were brought to El Paso Sunday to answer an indictment brought by the present federal grand jury charging them with violating of the neutrality laws. They were brought from Doug-las, Arizona, where they were arrested on orders from El Paso.

the two men were alleged to have been in the employ of the Mexican consul to blow up the bridges on the Mexican central railroad which at the time was operated by the rebels. The charge against the men is that they for the extradition of Emilio Campa, held here pending extradition proceedings, is strong among Americans and Mexicans here. Dr. John Dixon, president of the board of home missions of the Presbyterian church, told the business men of this church what their plain duty was when he addressed them at a luncheon given in his honor at the Sheidon hotel Monday. Dr. Dixon arrived here from Deming, N. M., where he had been attending the New Mexico synod of the Presbyterian church. He was here Monday afternoon as the guest of Rev. Charles L. Overstreet, of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. Kenneth Brown, of the East El Paso Presbyterian church, and Rev. Warren Elsing, of the Altura Park church.

"The hardest problem is given to the American church at this age and at this time," Dr. Dixon said, "No city has the responsibility for the moral uplift of the Mexican people as has El Paso. The future of El Paso depends upon the Christian men of El Paso doing their duty. The Mexicans must have the gospel presented from a sympathetic and racial standpoint.

"You men of El Paso have a "hance here now that those coming 20 or 20 years later will not have. What you de now will tell for years to come in making El Paso the most moral and religious of all the southwest for you and for your children's children."
